Adjectives vs. Adverbs

ADJECTIVES

Modify nouns and pronouns

e.g. beautiful, cool, wonderful, smooth, expensive

ADVERBS

Modify the rest (adjectives, adverbs, verbs)

e.g. practically, relatively, carefully, naturally, never

Adjectives

Adjectives

Modify nouns and pronouns only

Can be used in two main ways

- A young woman
- The woman is young

Only the second one is possible with pronouns

- She is young

Two Ways of Using Adjectives

in front of noun	after linking verb

One position

Only in front of a noun

- The only thing we can do is wait.
- The former prime minister is giving a lecture.

Only after a linking verb

- Careful, the dog is asleep.
- Linda felt ill last week.

Comparison

Comparison

Comparative:

That tower is taller than most other towers.

Superlative:

But this tower is the tallest.

Comparison

Rules

- 1 syllable → -er and –est
  She is bigger than her brother.
  She is the biggest.

- 2 syllables→ -er and -est or more/most
  He is funnier than his sister
  His uncle is the funniest

  She is more famous than you
  They are the most famous

- 3+ syllables → more and most
  They are more beautiful than her
  She is the most beautiful

Some spelling rules

Words that end in -e →-r, -st

- wider, later, larger

Words ending in vowel + consonant (big, wet, thin) double the consonant →

- bigger, wetter, thinner

Words ending in -y → -ier, iest

- easier, heavier, luckier

Comparison – Two syllables

- er and - est

She is funnier than her brother.

OR more and most

She is more famous than her brother.

Comparison – Two syllables

-le	simple – simpler – simplest
-er	clever – cleverer – cleverest
-y	happy – happier – happiest
-ow	yellow – yellower – yellowest
-some	handsome – handsomer - handsomest

Comparison – Three syllables more and most

She is more intelligent than her brother.

She is the most intelligent.

Irregular Forms

Bad	–	worse	–	worst
Far	–	farther	–	farthest
Far	–	further	–	furthest
Good	–	better	–	best
Little	–	less	–	least
Many	–	more	–	most
Much	–	more	–	most
Old	–	older	–	oldest
Old	–	elder	–	eldest

Adverbs

Adverbs Modify…

Type	Example
Verbs	hanging dangerously over
Adjectives	very beautiful faces
Other adverbs	never carefully considers
Phrases	nearly to the edge of the cliff, she was practically crying her eyes out
Clauses	just when we arrived
Sentences	fortunately, she is employed

Adverbs Form

adding –ly to base of adjective

He is a careful man.

He drove carefully.

Let’s have a quick look.

He left the room quickly.

Some spelling rules

Words ending in -y → -ily

- Easily, heavily, temporarily

Words ending in -le: -le → -ly

- Possibly, terribly, simply

Words ending in -ic → -ically

- Technically, dramatically, comically

Adverbs Form

Some adverbs same as the adjective

- early, late, straight, direct, hard, etc.

1. I'm going to have an early night.
2. He left early to get to class in time.

1. It's hard to draw a straight line.
2. We went straight home after the show.

Adverbs Form

Some adverbs mean something else if you add -ly

1. She worked very hard.
2. She hardly worked.

1. He is working late tonight.
2. Have you seen him lately.

Adverbs form

One adjective has a completely different from as its adverb

- That was a good show
- They played very well.

Adverbs Form

Some forms are awkward *difficultly = with great difficulty

Some adjectives already end in –ly

*friendlily = in a friendly way

Adverbs Form

Many adverbs not based on adjectives

I'm leaving soon.

Theo rather likes brownies.

She is very pretty.

I don't quite see your point.

Comparing with adverbs

Adverbs that end in -ly always get more and most

- The girl danced more beautifully than the others
- This fox moves more quickly than that one

Adverbs that don’t end in -ly work like adjectives

- He worked harder than me
- They just played better than us
- So: well - better - best

Types of Adverbs

adverb type	paraphrase	example manner	How …?	perfectly place	Where …?	everywhere
time	When …?	yesterday
frequency	How often?	never sentence	[opinion]	clearly

Position of Adverbs

Adverbs can go in front, mid or end position

FRONT	MID	END
Now we were	carefully going	back.

Many adverbs can be used in different positions, but each type of adverb has a position it usually goes in

Adverbs in front position

Sentence adverbs often go in front position

- Fortunately, no one was hurt.

They can be used in other positions as well

- They won’t be coming, of course.

Adverbs in mid position

Adverbs of frequency usually go in mid position

That is after the first auxiliary verb and/or before the main verb

- I have often wondered about that.
- She always tries to outsmart me.

If the main verb is a form of BE the adverb of frequency follows it

- They are never late.

Some adverbs of frequency can go in front or end position

- I have problems sometimes.

Adverbs in end position

Adverbs of manner, place, and time usually go in end position.

- He finished his chores quickly.
- We'll meet you there.
- I'll see you tomorrow.

If more than one is used, the most common order is manner, then place, then time

- We cleaned thoroughly here yesterday.

All three can be used in front position (with extra emphasis) and adverbs of manner can go in mid position

Dutch vs. English

Unlike Dutch an adverb cannot go between the verb and the direct object

- Hij verliet boos de kamer.
- He left angrily the room.*

- He angrily left the room.
- *Hij boos verliet de kamer.

Final note

All of the information about the order of adverbs also applies to adverbials

- They arrived in a hurry at the airport this morning.
- in a hurry = adverbial of manner
- at the airport = adverbial of place
- this morning = adverbial of time

Preparation for the Workshop/Leerplein

1. Go to the Formative Test answers
2. Check if you understand what went wrong
3. Identify any answers that you have further questions about 4. Then practice today's or last week's topic and see if you have any follow up questions.

Note: You don't have to stay for the whole Leerplein if that doesn't work for you.
